

WIN LAURELS

to win honours

Dr. Tagore won laurels in the field of literature.

WEAR A LONG FACE

to look gloomy

In spite of losing his job, he did not wear a long face.

WILD GOOSE CHASE

I will catch the moon tonight

Go on kid, start you wild goose chase. Its useless

useless efforts

Pakistan's efforts to grab Kashmir have proved to be a wild goose chase.

WASH DIRTY LINEN IN PUBLIC

I will do whatever I want to do. Stay away

Why did you cheat on me with your secretary?

BANK EXAMS Today

Don't discuss your private affairs in public.

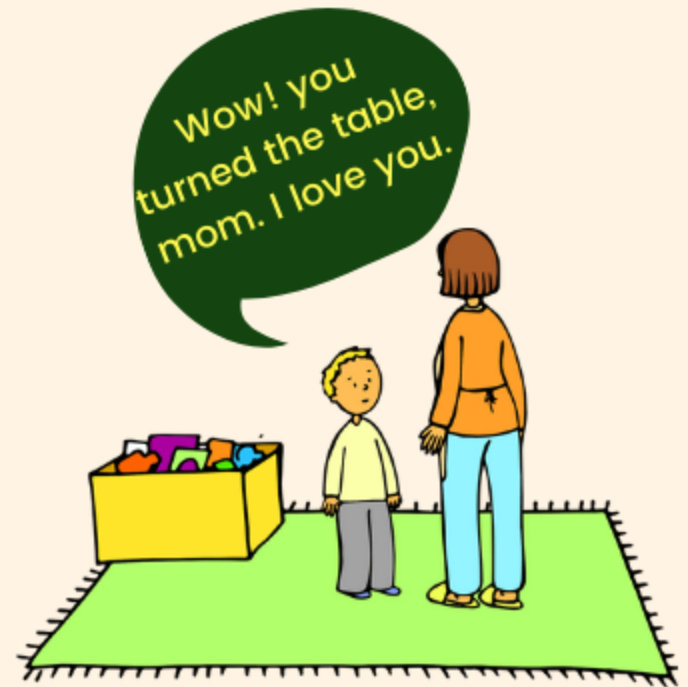

to expose private affairs in public

There is nothing as bad as washing one's dirty linen in public.

TURN THE TABLES

BANK
EXAMS Today

to change the situation completely

The ruling party had an easy victory in the last Lok Sabha election but inflation and corruption have totally turned the table.

THICK-SKINNED PERSON

He killed his own wife and see how happy he is. So insensitive

Keep talking. I don't care. I am thick-skinned.

BANK
EXAMS Today

not easily offended, insensitive

He is such a thick-skinned person that he laughed when people cursed and abused him.

TOOL IN THE HANDS OF

Sir, help me to get rid of this case.

Sure, the whole department is a tool in the hands of my brother.

under the authority of another

The whole legal system has become a tool in the hands of the politicians.

THROW LIGHT ON

Sir, can you see the place where we should construct our railway line

Nothing is visible here.

Let me throw some light. It will help you understand clearly.

BANK
EXAM

to make something easier to understand

I wanted to throw light on the pitiful life of the bar dancers.

TAKE THE BULL BY THE HORNS

Dad, a bull is chasing me. Please help

Son, you must learn to face danger with courage.

BANK
EXAMS Today

to face danger with courage

Bhagat Singh took the bull by the horns and bravely challenged the British empire.

THROW MUD AT

Sandip is dishonest so he was fired from the job.

He wan't fired. He quit the job. Don't throw mud at someone try to make a low opinion of someone by saying unpleasant things about him

Companies should think carefully before throwing mud at someone who may respond with a legal action costing them crores of rupees.