CASE 1. 'KING VS KING'

Suppose there is a war going on between two kings.Whenever the two kings faces each other means war. In other words conclusion will be wrong.

Note: Two signs opposite to each other will make the conclusion wrong But again if the signs are in same manner that will not make it wrong.

like this

If A > B < C > D then A < C = False , C > A = False .

But

If E > F > G > H then E > G = True , F > H = True , E > H = True.

Statement: A < D > C < E > B

Conclusions:

- C > B → False
- A < E → False
- D > B → False

In simple way ,Whenever these two sign comes in opposite direction the answer will be false.

CASE 2. ' SOLDIER VS SOLDIER'
